

PRIVACY AND USE POLICY

Privacy: The Mantis Institute is an educational peace society that does not collect, nor solicits emails or personal information from site visitors. Only ISP information from visits are recorded in the statistical usage logs that are periodically and permanently deleted.

Use: Visitors can download materials made available on-line for public use, or purchase publications for private consumption. All materials inclusive of videos and published electronic and paperback books are the intellectual, copyrighted property of the Mantis Institute and its authors whose usages are solely restricted to being cited as research sources in articles, books, videos, radio or any mode of broadcast information or discussion.

In the event that any published materials or authors are cited or referred to in unaffiliated publications or video broadcasts, please notify the Mantis Institute, and provide a copy of the print publication or video broadcast for inclusion in its library.
